Lancaster County Engineer Pam Dingman Elected as South-Central Region Vice President of the National Association of County Engineers

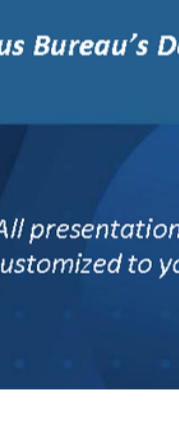

Washington, D.C. – Lancaster County Engineer Pam Dingman was installed as South-Central Region Vice President of the National Association of County Engineers (NACE) at their recent annual meeting and technical conference. Dingman's term will run through April of 2024. NACE is a nonprofit, nonpartisan professional association in its 67th year, representing over 3,000 county road officials and related professionals in the U.S. and Canada. In the U.S., local roads account for about 75% of highways and roads, or 2.93 million miles. Counties manage 1.74 million miles of those roads. Counties also own 231,000 bridges and operate one-third of the nation's transit systems.

"It is an honor and privilege to serve the nation's county road professionals for this term," said Dingman. "I am humbled by the faith my fellow engineers have placed in me and look forward to joining the nation's county road professionals to ensure our national transportation network remains strong, safe, and secure. Infrastructure will be a key part of our economic recovery, and I look forward to ensuring county priorities have a seat at the table."

Pam Dingman is a licensed Professional Civil Engineer and is currently in her third term as Lancaster County Engineer. She leads a staff of 115 employees and is responsible for overseeing an annual budget that is nearly $40,000,000. Prior to being elected she owned and managed Engineering Design Consultants, a civil engineering consulting firm. She has served on the City of Waverly's Planning commission, and numerous local and national boards. She has a BS in Civil Engineering from the University of Nebraska – Lincoln and has two grown sons.

NACO would like to congratulate Pam on this significant achievement! Pam is the first female elected to this position in the Region history.
